WANTS CAPITAL AT SASKATOON

Member for Northern City Will Move Resolution to That Effect

Regina, Sask., May 21.—In the Legislature this morning Sutherland, member for Saskatoon, gave notice that on Wednesday next he would move for leave to introduce a resolution declaring that in the opinion of the House the seat of government for the province of Saskatchewan should be established at Saskatoon.

RUSSIAN OFFICERS MAY BE SHOT

Military Court Reported to Have Condemned Them for Treason

St. Petersburg, May 22.—It is rumored that the military court which has been investigating the surrender of Port Arthur and the battle of the Sea of Japan has condemned to death Lieut. General Stoessel who commanded the Russian forces at Port Arthur and Rear Admiral Nebogatoff, who commanded one of Admiral Rozhkovsky's squadrons and who surrendered during the naval battle to the Japanese.

FARMER DIED FROM GLANDERS

Manitoba Man Died from Disease Which He Contracted from Horses

Snowflake, Man., May 22.—F. Hall, lived a few miles north of Windigates, of Darlingford, on what is known as the Peninsula plateau, for years. His horses have for weeks been sick and only last week it was discovered that glanders was the trouble. The provincial veterinary ordered five horses shot at once. The government paid $275 to Hall for his loss. Some pills that had been used for watering the horses had been used in the house and Hall was taken sick. Doctors were called and it was found that he had glanders. Sunday he succumbed to the disease. He was an awful sight as the disease had made great headway. Great precautions will have to be taken in the burial.

BLOODY BATTLE IN OLD KENTUCKY

Seven Men Engage in a Fierce Encounter and Three are Badly Injured

Cincinnati, May 22.—A bloody battle was fought between seven men at the southern depot in Walton, Kentucky, twenty miles south of Covington. In the course of the fight Wm. Merrill's throat was cut, Geo. Marchant's arm was fractured by a bullet and Clayton Anderson's skull was fractured by a club. Others have many hurts.

OUTSIDER WON HANDICAP
Gravesend, Long Island, May 21.—J. W. Fuller, "Tokanoo," a disabled outsider at 25 to 1 in the betting captured the Brooklyn handicap here today from second choice Dandelion with Fickett third. Time 2:05 3/5, within one fifth of a second of the track record.

THE PREMIER IN WINNIPEG
Free Press: Premier A. C. Rutherford, of Alberta, and speaker of the legislature, C. W. Fisher, of Banff, arrived in the city from the west and will go east at 7:35 p.m. on the transcontinental Canadian Pacific train.

Speaking of the conditions in Alberta the premier stated that they were favorable. The spring had been somewhat dry, but it was receiving rain when he left, and all the country appeared in a very satisfactory condition. Advice from Strathcona, 11 1/2 miles from the city, that the rain had been continuous and that the moisture was ample for the present.

The session of the legislature had been exceedingly satisfactory and the business of the province had received full and complete attention. The question of the location of the capital had been satisfactorily adjusted without any undue friction or trouble.

Mr. Fisher had intended to go through direct to Montreal this morning but had been detained a few minutes too long by a Winnipeg barber, and missed the eastbound train. He will go east to-night with the premier.

Asked regarding the object of their trip east, the western legislators had nothing to say. It is understood, however, that they will confer with the Dominion government regarding important matters now pending.

Mr. Rutherford is accompanied east by Mrs. Rutherford and their little daughter. They will spend several days in the federal capital and return to the west on the 28th.

C.P.R. PASSENGERS NARROW ESCAPE

Engine and Two Cars Plunged Through Broken Span of Ill-constructed Bridge

Vancouver, May 22.—The C. P. R. passenger train which left Vancouver Sunday morning for the east was extremely lucky in not suffering an awful accident in the breaking of the bridge across the Illecillewaet river at noon Monday. The bridge is a high one and the old wooden structure is now being replaced by a series of steel spans. When the locomotive ran over one of the new spans the latter broke. The engine and two cars filled with "rush" freight immediately behind the locomotive went through the gap into the rushing river below. Fireman Corbett was instantly killed by being crushed between the engine and tender. Engineer Purvis escaped with a few bruises. The coupling broke just back of the freight car, and the air brakes on the passenger cars being automatically set the train came to a standstill just at the edge of the span.

RIEL'S LIEUTENANT IS ALSO GONE

Gabriel Dumont One of the Leaders of the Rebellion Died on Saturday at Batouche

Rosethorn, Sask., May 22.—Gabriel Dumont, the man who furnished the skill to conduct the Reil rebellion, died suddenly near Batouche Saturday morning. Death was not expected, as Dumont had not been ailing previously. He was about seventy-five years old. Dumont figured in the Rebellion as Riel's lieutenant. In reality he conducted the campaign which thrilled all Canada. Afterwards he escaped to Montana. Riel being captured and hanged, Dumont was granted amnesty and returned to Batouche where he settled on a river lot. Gabriel's crossing being named after him on the North Saskatchewan River. He lived quietly, the Indians and half-breeds worshipping him.

The most peculiar coincidence in connection with the death of Dumont is the death of Riel's mother at St. Vital on the same day that her son's confederate passed away at Batouche.

BRITISH COLUMBIA PEOPLE WANT NORTH WEST MOUNTED POLICE

Round up of Train Robbers Showed Efficiency of the Force--Victoria Paper Would Make this Ground for Asking for More Subsidies

Kamloops, May 22.—As a result of the hold up and arrest of the train robbers a Royal North West Mounted Police force may be established in this province. R. Marpole, superintendent of the C.P.R. on the subject said "The presence of a contingent of the Dominion Mounted Police in B.C. would certainly have a deterrent effect. I see no reason why a corps should not be stationed at a point like Kamloops and another further south and also at Golden. The provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan are favored in having such a magnificent body of men to maintain law and order. The sparsely settled and remote districts of this province surely require just as much attention.

"I am convinced of the necessity for something being done in this country as the result of the brief investigations made by our special detectives. I am strongly in favor of keeping blood hounds in certain parts of the province."

MOB OUTRAGES AT FUNERALS

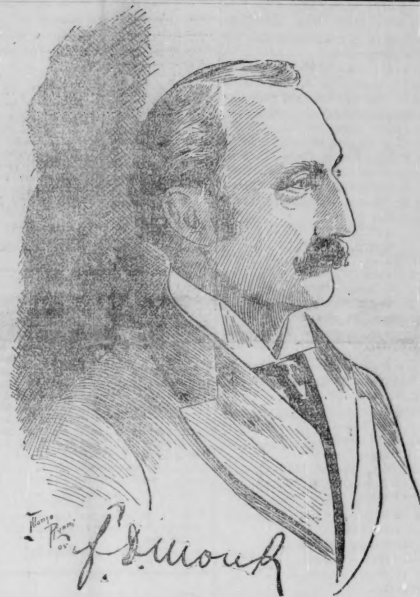

Mourners Pelted with Stones From Roofs of Tenement Houses

New York, May 22.—The east side was aroused yesterday by three riots of striking drivers and sympathizers who mobbed and stoned funerals. Weddings were also interfered with and guests had to walk or ride on street cars. The worst disturbance of the day occurred at the funeral of Samuel Diamond from his late residence in Avenue "C". The undertaker had been able to get only one open coach and hearse, and he drove the hearse himself. His son drove the carriage which was occupied by Diamond's family. Three hundred friends of the Diamond family, finding no carriage, determined to walk. The procession started for the Williamsburg bridge, followed by a shouting crowd of strikers and their sympathizers. At Norfolk and Delancey streets showers of stones fell from the roofs of tenement houses upon the heads of the mourners. Several missiles struck the carriage occupied by relatives of the deceased.

SEAGRAM WON THE PLATE.
Toronto, May 21.—Before one of the largest crowds ever assembled at the Woodbine J. E. Seagram's game colt Slaughter landed the King's plate on Saturday.

It was a lovely day and the track was in perfect condition, the mile and a quarter being run in 2:13.4. Court Martial, Dymont's entry, was a strong favorite, but his jockey made the mistake of underestimating the field and started out to make a runaway race of it.

Before a half mile Slaughter, Haruko and Wicklight closed up and the four horses ran nearly the whole remaining distance bunched. At the head of the stretch Slaughter came to the front and won by two lengths. Court Martial was second, Haruko, another Seagram entry, was third, and Wick-light, the Kirkfield stable entry, was fourth. His performance was disappointing.

Besides the King's fifty guinea Mr. Seagram was presented with a handsome piece of plate by Earl Grey, on behalf of the Club and received $2750 added by the Jockey Club.

LIGHTHOUSE KEEPER FOUND DEAD

Port Arthur, May 22.—Thomas Hamilton, lighthouse keeper at Pie Island, was found dead yesterday. At the lighthouse by Indians who were taking provisions to him. He lived alone on the island and had apparently been dead for ten days. Hamilton was an old timer at the head of the lakes and was about sixty years of age.

The Bulletin's Daily Budget From the Sister Town

Strathcona, May 21.—Mr. Adolf Steinhilber, an employee of Walters' mill, was the victim of a painful accident on Saturday morning last. Mr. Steinhilber was handling lumber near a slab saw and in moving a board he extended his left hand too far behind and thus came in contact with the saw, which cut through the left small finger before he could withdraw his hand. Dr. Greene is attending the injured last. Messrs. J. C. Crawford and W. E. Bishop arrived in town last Saturday night with two carloads of horses. They were in company with Mr. J. Fletcher, town, and purchased the horses principally in Washington, U. S. They report horses scarce in the Western States and British Columbia, and many Canadian buyers in those places. The horses last arrived are said to be a good sample of riding and driving horses.

HOW GEORGE E. WILL CELEBRATE

Man With the Marked Cards Will Spend the 24th. at the Fort
 Breaking Rocks

Geo. E. Tuck, of Minneapolis, Minn., gentleman, is the way his name went down on the police books and to all outward appearance he might pass for what he represented himself to be. But the disguise fell off when the police started to go through him.

George E. Tuck, Esquire, must have been moving. His clothes were literally lined with goods. One pocket, next to his heart, contained three nice new decks of bicycle firsts, beautifully engraved for suits and denominations. In another pocket was the marking outfit, red, white and green ink, pens, shading paste and all the rest of it. Carefully secreted in his inside pocket was a plain silver ring with a fat side to it. This one had the cops guessing for a while until a little square looking-glass, about quarter of an inch either way, and a tube of glue was found in another pocket. This completed the combination. The looking-glass, glued onto the flat plates on the ring, and worn on the inside of the little finger on the left hand, made a very neat shiner. No use being in doubt about what the next fifteen or sixteen cards are when you can make a shiner for fifteen cents. The dice outfit was not up to the same standard of excellence as the rest of the paraphernalia. George E. only had two.

Among the literature in Mr. Tuck's possession were a few advertising circulars from one of the leading sporting goods houses in the United States, which told all about the latest appliances for getting the money. Prices seem to be away down in most of the standard sporting goods lines now. There is a short list of Saturday snaps in the far line.

Card Punches, coarse or fine. 3.00
 Sighlers, per set of four. 2.50

Marked paper for short card work; is also away down. Here are a few quotations:

In ordering these cards state what kind of cards preferred, and be particular to give full directions - just what you want them for, and what cards you want stripped.

Loaded dice are also comparatively cheap. Celluloid, loaded to come 7 or craps, $2.00 and heels to go with them $2.00 more.

When Geo. E. Tuck got before Magistrate Wade he tried bravely to explain away the whole paraphernalia, but Officer McCallum took the stand related how his attention had been attracted to the gentleman from Minneapolis on account of the fact that he was altogether too familiar with a Stony Plains farmer. For the safety of the farmer and his roll Officer McCallum undertook to lead the son of the soil to the police station, where-at George E. protested violently that he should not be separated from his friend. Officer McCallum, being of an obliging disposition, decided not to separate them. He took George E. in too. Magistrate Wade reviewed the case carefully yesterday afternoon and decided that George E. Tuck, of Minneapolis, gentleman, was, according to his own story, altogether too innocent a youth to be allowed to roam at large. Some real estate agent might take him in. So George E. will spend the 24th of May at the Fort; and every other 24th for all consecutive moons. The shiners, and the phoneys and the paper and all the rest of it didn't get him anything. George E. was broke and he will serve six months as a vag.

MIXED TRAIN FOR C. N. R.

Local Shippers Will be Able to Make
 Daily Delivery to all Points East

Geo. H. Shaw, general freight and passenger agent of the Canadian Northern, who is in the city for a few days, announced this morning that a regular mixed train is to be added to the C.N.R. service for the accommodation of Edmonton wholesalers. The new service will commence on June 3rd. The train will leave here at 8 o'clock every morning, carrying freight and passengers for way points. There will be refrigerated cars for fruit and other perishables, and in every case 10,000 pounds will be accepted as a car from any individual shipper.

This improvement in the service will be fully appreciated by the Edmonton public as it gives a double daily passenger service and regular daily freight delivery down the line.

ALBERTA COAL AND OIL FIELDS.

In the annual report of the geological survey of the Dominion which has just been published some interesting information has been given regarding the mining conditions in Alberta, particular reference being made to coal and oil possibilities.

Referring to the far north the report says:

The country lying along and to the west of the Athabasca river, from a point above Fort McMurray to Athabasca Lake, is a particularly promising field. The "tar sands" which form the surface in this region are, in places, 100 feet or more in thickness and consist of uniformly fine sand of cretaceous age, saturated and blackened by impregnated petroleum which, in past times, has ascended through the underlying strata from a considerable depth. In the early eighties petroleum was already reported as occurring in the different localities on the Mackenzie river and elsewhere in the Northwest beyond Athabasca.

Impregnated petroleum was reported to have been found at Egg lake and near Morinville, northward of Edmonton. A boring for petroleum was made by the geological survey at Pelican rapids, on the Athabasca river, between the landing and Fort McMurray. A flow of gas, under strong pressure, was struck at this boring in 1898 and it has been blowing off with a roaring noise ever since. The success of the experiments carried on by the Canadian Northern and private capitalists, in the region lying immediately to the north of Edmonton, show that the geological surveys made no mistake.

Of the much talked of Pincher Creek oil wells the report has this to say from observations made up to the summer of 1904:

Small quantities of petroleum of fine quality came to the surface in several places near Pincher Creek and also on some tributaries of the Palliser river, of British Columbia, not far from the same neighborhood.

The geological conditions in the two localities just mentioned seem to resemble those in the oil district of Colorado.

If the crown of an anticline with low or moderate slope could be located at some distance out from the foot of the Rocky mountains in this latitude it might prove a profitable experiment to bore into it in search of petroleum.

In this connection it is important to ascertain the strike of any undulations which may exist in the strata underlying the great plain east of the Rocky Mountains in Alberta.

To D. B. Dowling has been entrusted the task of perfecting the map of the national park, north and south, on the line of the band of coal bearing rocks of the Bow river valley.

Several wells made made to the coal mines being developed at Bankhead, then the party proceeded north. The Palliser range which is a continuation of the mountains along the eastern side of the Cascade basin, is found to have another coal basin developed on the eastern bank commencing south of the Panther River. This extends north and crosses the Red Deer river, while still farther to the east, past another mountain range, a triangular area of the same coal-bearing rocks occupies a position a few miles to the northward of the one noted above. The two areas, Panther and Red Deer, which here cut traversely across the mountain ranges, give sections of three coal-bearing basins, having their maximum width on the Panther river.

Canmore and Anthracite mines were judged by the explorers to be capable of greatly increased production. Bankhead mine was considered to be working under favorable conditions and capable of producing 500 tons a day for fifty years to come from the lower seam alone. This coal contains from 84 to 88 per cent carbon and 9 to 19 per cent volatile matter.

In the Canadian region on the Panther river, 3,000,000 tons of semi-anthracite coal may possibly be found.

A "SCANDAL" SESSION

The Winnipeg Telegram claims that the present session of the Federal House will go down to history as the "scandal session" and publishes in the prospect to the extent of a quarter column, double headed.

According to Webster's scandal consists in "Reproachful aspersions; opprobrious censure; defamatory speech or report; something uttered which is false and injurious to reputation."

And this is the type of political discussion the Telegram approves; the gutter-slap tactics which it hopes may make the session memorable on which it bestows its benediction and builds its hopes.

There is truth in the Telegram's premise. The session of 1906 promises to become memorable as that which witnessed the deterioration of a respectable Opposition into a bawdy scandal monger who indulged what they dare not charge and moved an amendment to prevent investigation of the only charge they had the manhood to make.

SOME "CAPITAL" ARGUMENTATION

The Saskatoon Capital says the Bulletin "That the Opposition at Ottawa tell in a recent issue attempted to and the Conservative party in general is opposed to an aggressive policy of immigration for Western Canada and gives as an excuse for its contention the fact that Dr. Sproule, the member for East Grey, in his speech in the Commons a few days ago, in criticism of the immigration department and its methods, spoke with full authority for the Opposition."

Proceeding the Capital says: "The member for East Grey may or may not be in favor of an aggressive immigration policy, but to accuse the Conservative party, as a whole, of being desirous of doing anything that would tend to stop the tide of immigration to the West is certainly far from the truth. So far as the party is concerned, it is now, and always has been, in favor of an aggressive immigration policy."

In proof of this the Capital alleges that: "When in power the Conservatives did their utmost to put in operation an aggressive policy of immigration, but was met at every turn by the opposition and obstructed by many of those gentlemen who occupy the Government benches, the Hon. Frank Oliver among the number."

The position of the Capital is that the Opposition members endorsed Dr. Sproule in arguing for the abandonment of a policy which the Conservative party has always favored, which that party desires to see continued and which that party would not abolish if it had the chance. The alternative assumptions are that the Opposition members do not represent the opinions of the Conservative party, or that in endorsing Dr. Sproule the Opposition members did so with the assurance that the composition of the House would protect the policy which they really favored from the damages of their apparent hostility.

That the acrobatic method of reasoning is not the only accomplishment of the Capital is apparent from the allegation that the present Minister of the Interior "obstructed" the alleged immigration policy of a Government during whose tenure of office he was never a member of the House.

MR. HILL'S RAILWAY PROGRAM

The announcement of Mr. J. J. Hill that he will build a railway system throughout Western Canada will meet with general approval from the people of the West and from those of Eastern Canada as well whose public views are not affected by private considerations or distorted by unnecessary fear of the diversion of Canadian traffic to American railway systems and American ports. That Mr. Hill had such plan on his program has been mooted in many quarters for some time and was publicly announced by the great railway builder himself in Winnipeg last week, when he said the enterprise would be pushed to completion with all despatch. Application for a charter to construct the line has been before Parliament for some time, and will be opposed by Senator Loughridge, of Calgary, and several Senators from Eastern Canada, will doubtless meet.

Houses at the present session and in time to permit the early construction desired by the promoter.

The outstanding feature of Mr. Hill's proposed system is that he will ask no Government assistance, either by way of bonus or bond guarantee.

There are to be no bonds issued for the road, simply stock for the amount necessary to construct and equip the line.

Such method of construction would be financially possible only for a system which will traverse a field already largely developed and certain to prove immediately profitable. It is not the purpose of the new system to open up new and unknown country or to provide a means of transportation through an unprofitable region. The Hill line will traverse a country already opened up by pioneer roads, a country which is already largely settled, and whose reputation is so firmly established that its complete settlement is certain within a very short time. The new system will be a purely commercial system, built to compete with other roads in already settled country and traversing comparatively small unsettled sections whose early settlement is assured when the transportation facilities are established. Such system holds every promise of proving a profitable investment at a very early date and its construction can be financed without the direct Government assistance of a bonus or the indirect assistance of a bond guarantee, which are found necessary to induce the construction both of through roads traversing non-revenue producing areas and of development roads traversing regions whose likelihood of becoming revenue producing is uncertain. It is a purely commercial venture undertaken on conditions which give assurance of commercial success, and as such can be financed by ordinary business methods.

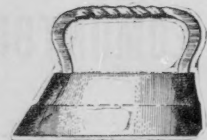

It is a fitting matter of congratulation to Canada that it is considered possible by a great railway builder to finance a fourth great railway system for Western Canada solely on the merits of the enterprise and the promise of the dividend-paying power of the road. It is not only an acknowledgment of the resources of Western Canada, but evidence that the prospect of the rapid development of these resources have become known to the men and institutions who provide the money with which to build railways. If the kings of finance were not favorably impressed with the future of Western Canada it may be taken for granted that Mr. Hill would not have placed the new Canadian project in the field until such favorable disposition had been secured or created. For the promoter of the new enterprise is an old and tried hand at railway financing and is not likely to undertake an enterprise whose hostile reception in the money market would reflect upon his judgment and discredit his already existing interests.

The advent of Mr. Hill emphasizes the wisdom of the Government in providing another through route to the Eastern Canadian ports by the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific. Mr. Hill announces that his line will constitute a purely western system and that he has no project for reaching the eastern seaboard except over other roads. The chief argument being raised in Eastern Canada against granting a charter for the new system is that it may divert traffic from Canadian routes and ports to the American lines terminating at the harbors of New England. If the district along the north shore of the Great Lakes were to continue to be traversed only by the Canadian Pacific line there might be good reason for fearing such result. This line has been already congested by C.P.R. traffic alone and the demands on its capacity are certain to be speedily doubled by the new business generating built by the increased traffic of those already in operation. If this were to remain the only means of communication by rail between eastern and western Canada it might well be that the inability of the C. P. R. to handle the freight business of the new system would force this to flow through the American channels. Fortunately, by the Grand Trunk Pacific provision has been made whereby this business may find a route over Canadian lines to the Canadian Atlantic ports. And that in handling this business the Canadian roads will be in a measure in competition with the alternative American routes will result in far less damage to Canadian roads and ports than in good to the general public.

NEW PROVINCES LIBERALLY ENDOWED

The Victoria Colonist has the following to say upon this subject: "Readers will have been interested in the remarks made by Mr. Marpole of the C. P. R. with respect to the necessity of greater police protection for the southern interior of British Columbia, and his suggestion that there should be a detachment of North West Mounted Police stationed there will doubtless have the careful consideration of the authorities at Ottawa."

"Speaking off-hand, we do not know what the arrangements are in respect to the Mounted Police in the new provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan. At present we believe they are still doing duty. It is assumed that the cost of maintaining order will be delayed by the provincial Government. If so, we must remember that these provinces are far more liberally endowed by the Dominion Government and the relative cost of maintaining order is much less. If not it is a much stronger argument in favor of our case. The burden of adequately policing the province under the new conditions at hand will be very great. We should not be pained in the condition of asking favors from the Federal authorities in doing what the constitution imposes on ourselves, therefore we should be insistent upon securing the increased subsidies necessary to enable us to adequately perform the duties incumbent upon us in this and other respects which with our present responsibilities and local sources of revenue, we are obviously unable to perform without seriously increasing the burdens upon the people."

DANCING GIRL IDENTIFIES MINER

Daring Old Outlaw Still Denies that He is the Man, Although Evidence Unimpeachable—Some of the Exploits and History of His Chequered Career

Kamloops, B.C. May 21.—Special to the Bulletin.—Notwithstanding the police, old Bill Miner, the veteran outlaw and probably the last of a picturesque, if desperate, class of bandits, still stoutly denies his identity or any knowledge of even the existence of a man of that name. Of course Miner is cut off from communication from the outside world and his friends, and sees and talks to no one except his natural enemy, the police, so he has no way of knowing what information they have and no doubt with past experience to guide him considers that his only chance lies in denying everything. There is no doubt in the minds of the detectives and police now at Kamloops, however, that the man captured at Douglas Lake is the notorious train robber.

The other night Miner, alias Edwards was stripped to the buff at the Kamloops jail, and detectives and police examined him as if he had been a strange insect under a laboratory microscope. There on the man's body were in plain sight all the distinguished marks peculiar to Bill Miner. The mole here, the scar there, and the general measurements all told their story, but despite the complete identification Miner stoutly maintained that his name was Edwards and that he had never heard of old Bill Miner, whose name has for years in certain sections of the west been used to frighten naughty children into obedience.

"I have not the slightest doubt," said Robt. Bullock, C. P. R. detective, "that the old man in custody is Bill Miner. I am well acquainted with Miner's features, and can recognize the family likeness even if I had not other proofs. Last night I saw the man stripped. He was lathering his hands and I asked him to turn them over wishing to identify a stencil mark on his arm. He turned his arm over, but not enough for me to see all of it. I asked him again when he was wiping his face and on his second refusal seized hold of the arm and turned it over."

"There was the dancing girl tattoo, well known to be on Bill Miner's arm. Other marks corresponded also. He has a scar on his hand which corresponds with the Pinkerton's description. His eyes also are unmistakable."

Mail Clerk McQuarrie was asked if he identified the old man as the train robber. He said, "Emphatically yes; I cannot be mistaken."

The mere denial of Edwards that he had never heard of old Bill Miner stamps the man as a most dissembling prevaricator. Because the man's name is known to every person in the west where his operations, extending over a period of thirty years have made him notorious.

If old Bill Miner's history could be gathered from his own hand it would be most romantic reading. As it is that part of his life which the police have record is replete with spellbinding situations, for the old man has figured in many a daring holdup of stage and express train.

Apart from the leading part Bill Miner took in the C. P. R. holdup near Mission Junction in September 1904 when $7,000 was lifted from an express car, Miner's most recent exploit as a train robber occurred in September 1905, when he and two companions held up and robbed an O.R. & N. train near a small way station known as Corbett.

With a more or less active criminal history for the last two score years on the coast, Miner is now getting to be a pretty old man. On June 7, 1901, he was liberated from San Quentin penitentiary, California, where he had been confined for twenty-five years. Then he came north and is supposed to have lost no time in carrying out the O.R. & N. job, two years ago. Since then the hunt for him has been continuous, but not until the present week was he located.

It is said to have been some time during the year 1879 that he was released from San Quentin after serving a number of years for stage robbery. Directly after he was set at liberty he was lost to the notice of the officers of that state, and for this reason it was rightly conjectured that he had had enough of California justice and had departed for other fields, where official vigilance was more lax, and stages and cash boxes were quite numerous.

Early in November, 1880, however, he arrived in Denver, Col., and there he met the noted Billy Leroy, who had become celebrated as one of the most daring Rocky Mountain highwaymen. Leroy had on many occasions, given the United States Government and the express companies of Colorado great trouble, but with an ingenuity that was considered little less than marvelous, he eluded capture. Upon Miner's arrival Leroy was much taken with the Californian's dancing tales of his many captures on the Pacific coast, and, upon invitation, readily linked the destinies of his criminal future with those of the new arrival.

ENTER MR. MORGAN.

As Miner prepared himself for the building of a criminal record in Colorado, he assumed the name of W. A. Morgan, but he was familiarly known among his associates as California Billy. Together the pair, with a recklessness which highwaymen only can assume, did all the principal towns of Colorado and finally, in the early part of December, 1880, were landed without a cent. They at once set out on a prospecting tour toward the southwestern part of Colorado. About the middle of the month they robbed the Del Norte stage, from which desperate piece of work they received $3000. Leroy was subsequently captured and hanged by a vigilance committee, not for this robbery in particular, but for a large number of previous misdeeds of a similar nature.

Miner, with his usual good luck, escaped with all the booty and evaded the most vigilant search ever instituted in the state for a fugitive highwayman.

ROBBERY STAGE AGAIN.
Miner made good his escape, but soon returned to Denver. There Miner met Stanton T. Jones, formerly of Ohio, and the two set out for the Rio Grande country on a foraging expedition. In March, 1881, they stopped the Del Norte stage again, but the booty they received paid them poorly for the risk they had run. Stealing two horses near Del Norte, they fled north again. After a tedious search lasting four days, the robbers were seen at about dusk riding leisurely across a bridge about forty miles from Del Norte. They were armed, but were finally covered by rifles of the officers and captured. Sheriff Brennaugh tied the three prisoners with balling wire as well as he could, and putting them on a freight wagon, started for Del Norte the same evening. They were compelled to camp at a place called Wagonwheel Gap for the night. Brennaugh and his companion, named Goodwin, were so completely exhausted that they fell into a deep sleep about 11 o'clock that night, leaving the teamster in charge of the prisoners.

THE PRISONERS ESCAPE.
About 11 o'clock the officers were aroused by the loud cries of the teamster. Springing from their beds they were startled by the sharp report of a pistol. The shot broke Goodwin's arm. The officers at once realized that Miner and Jones had succeeded in untying themselves, and with a pistol that had been overlooked in the search were making a desperate fight. The second shot broke the sheriff's right arm at the shoulder, and the third and fourth shots struck Goodwin in the left arm, completely disabling it. The two desperadoes then dashed away in the darkness and were seen no more.

Miner went direct to San Francisco travelling the entire distance on horseback, via Livermore to Oakland, arriving in San Francisco five days after the robbery.

MINER'S CAPTURE.
Miner was still pursued, and in company with another of his gang named Muller took off down the Sacramento river. Thither they were pursued by Captain Aull, under whom Miner had served four years at San Quentin. Aull came upon his men suddenly and commenced firing at them. At almost the first round Muller threw down his gun and came running in with both hands in the air. Miner took flight, but was pursued by one of Aull's associates and finally forced to surrender. Both Miner and Muller were taken to Sacramento.

The confession of Crum made the case an easy one. The culprits pleaded guilty, Miner and Muller getting twenty-five years each and Crum only twelve years.

FOSTER'S FORECASTS.
Washington, D. C., May 19. — Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 17 to 21, warm wave 16 to 20, cool wave 19 to 23. Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about 20 cross west of Rockies, country 22 to 24, eastern states 25. Warm wave will cross west of Rockies about 20, great central valleys 22, eastern states 24. Cool wave will cross west of Rockies about 23, great central valleys 25, eastern states 27.

This will be the most severe disturbance of May and dangerous storms may be expected during its movement eastward across the continent. It will close the hottest and driest period of May and will be followed by increasing rainfall. The closing day of May will be favorable to the corn crop, except that the weather will be a little too cool.

The last disturbance of May will reach Pacific coast about 25; cross west of Rockies by close of 26, great central valleys 27 to 29, eastern states 30. Warm wave will cross west of Rockies country about 25, great central valleys 27, eastern states 29. Cool wave will cross west of Rockies country about 28, great central valleys 30, eastern states June 1.

This disturbance will be most severe on Pacific coast and will grow less fierce as it passes eastward, but rainfall will increase over the previous week. Low temperature will follow it. I expect a drought to begin in June that will be of increasing interest to corn growers and dealers. It will also have some effect on oats and grass. I will give some of the particulars of that drought in my next bulletin. My June weather chart definitely locates that drought, and is therefore of unusual interest. It will be mailed to any subscriber of this paper on receipt of a 2-cent stamp. These monthly weather charts constitute the basis of all my weekly weather bulletins. Crop weather of June, July and August will be of greater importance than any that has occurred since 1901 and therefore these forecasts will attract more than the usual interest to those who are interested in the cereals.

BIG CELEBRATION AT THE FORT.
Victoria Day at the Fort will be a gala day, providing the weather is favorable. Arrangements are about completed for the biggest celebration in the history of the little garrison town, and the streets on that day will be crowded with visitors from Edmonton, Strathcona and other places. The committee in charge of the arrangements are offering $1000 in prize money. The program of events provides for a day full of enjoyment for all who attend.

The first event will be a lacrosse match between the senior teams of Edmonton and Strathcona for a purse of $75 at 10:30 a.m.

In the afternoon a long list of races will be run as follows:

Free for all, best 3 in 5, purse of $150.

Half mile open run, 2 in 3, purse $150.

2.35 trot or pace, 3 in 5, purse $150.

Half mile pony race, in 3 purse $100.

3 minute trot or pace, 3 in 5, purse $150.

Entrance fee, ten per cent of purse. All the entries close at 12 noon, on day of races, and all entries made at post will be 5 per cent. of purse extra.

The Junior baseball team of the Fort will play a game with the Strathcona Juniors for $25, and at 6:30 in the evening, Edmonton and Strathcona will play baseball.

During the day the Strathcona brass band will entertain the crowds with music.

A special train will be run from Edmonton at 9 in the morning, and returning, will leave the Fort at 7 p.m.

FOLICEMAN TELLS OF THE CAPTURE

The Calgary Herald says the seven members of the Royal North West Mounted Police who left Calgary last Friday in quest of the robbers of the C.P.R. passenger train, came back yesterday noon covered with laurels. The party consisted of Sergeant Wilson; Corporal Shoebottom of Banff; Corporals Sergeant Thompson, of Okotoks; Corporals Peters and Stewart, Constables Tubbet and Browning.

The stories told by these men is thrilling and full of interest. Corporal Peters gave the following account of the exploit:

"We arrived at Kamloops on May 12 and disembarked at the station. We had already slept in coming up on the train and were ready to leave by 6 p.m. for Douglas Lake. At 12.30 midnight we had covered 20 miles and camped at the house of an Englishman named Blackburn. Next morning at six they were on the road again, making off in the direction of Douglas Lake. The guide of our party was a man called Slim Jim Benyon, who knew the country well. He halted originally from Mactod. It was about four o'clock on Sunday when we struck Douglas Lake and put up for the night at Graves' ranch. No trace yet. Next morning we started with a pack-horse at seven o'clock toward Chapperton Lake, 11 miles from Douglas Lake and got our dinner there.

"Just after dinner Constable Fernie rode in and said he had seen three men on foot with sacks on their backs. He had not spoken to them, but had ridden off for assistance. We saddled up at once and galloped back seven miles toward Douglas Lake. "When we got there we could find none of the traces we which Constable Fernie referred. So we scattered with the idea of scouring the country. Five of the party—Wilson, Shoebottom, Stewart, Peters and Browning went in one direction and the other two in another. A couple of miles away from the spot at which the search was begun, Stewart walked up with his hat. He had seen the smoke of a camp fire. It was in the midst of a clump of willows. By the time we got to where Stewart was, he was talking to three men who sat by a fire eating their meal. Sergeant Wilson arrived immediately and asked them what they were doing. One who afterwards proved to be Shorty Dunn spoke up and said "I'm prospecting." Wilson said "You answer the description of the men we were looking for, and I guess you'll have to come with us."

"With that Shorty Dunn turned over to one side, drew his revolver, and skinned for the willows, at the same time discharging his barrell. Just as he made a break Sergeant Wilson covered Edwards, alias Miner, and I covered Colquhoun. Colquhoun had started to draw his revolver, and I said "If you draw it I'll blow your brains out. Put your hands up." He then put up his hands. Meantime Browning, Stewart, and Shoebottom were out after Dunn. Browning hit Shorty in the leg and he gave up. He fired six shots before he surrendered. The wound had the effect of helping him into the ditch rather than over it in his mad dash, and when he saw his pursuers close upon him he said "I'm hit, let me all up." The men talked in clothes, age and build with those described by the C.P.R. trainmen.

BUDGET SPEECH TO-DAY.

Ottawa, May 22.—Hon. F. Oliver introduced his bill to-day to amend the Immigration act. It was read a first time.

Moraney also moved his resolution for papers in connection with the claims of retired servants of the Hudson Bay Co. Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that if they had a claim it was against the Hudson Bay Co. and, not against the government.

Mr. Fielding will deliver his budget speech to-morrow. He will begin at 4.30, being detained for an hour and a half on account of the marriage of the daughter of Sir Frederick Borden, which he is to attend.

THE CHARGES WERE PROTH.

Ottawa, May 18.—The resolution of the premier, in moving for a committee to investigate the purchase of supplies for the Arctic, was as follows: "Whereas a specific charge has been made by the members of this House from their seats to the effect that these supplies, which in the summer of 1903 were purchased by the department of marine and fisheries for the government steamer Arctic were not all put on board the said steamer, but were in part diverted for other uses, by and for the benefit of other persons still unknown; and whereas like charges have been made that excessive prices were corruptly paid for said supplies, and that in consequence thereof pecuniary benefits were received by officials of the said department; that a special committee be appointed to inquire fully into all circumstances connected with the purchase of the said supplies, and the disposal of the same, and other matters above mentioned, same to have power to send for persons, papers and records, and to examine witnesses on oath or affirmation; and that the said committee do report in full the evidence taken before them, and other proceedings under the reference."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier went on to say that the statement was made categorically that the supplies which had been purchased had not been placed in the Arctic. The leader of the opposition expressed the suspicion that this was the case. Mr. Taylor said something of the kind, and the speaker said that the charges were made, that being the case, there should be a complete and full investigation into all matters complained of; he therefore moved an amendment that a committee of seven members be appointed to enquire into and investigate the expenditure of public money in or by the department of marine and fisheries from and after the 30th day of June, and to enquire whether any abuses, irregularities, improprieties or maladministration have arisen or occurred in respect of such expenditure and whether any persons employed by the department with the said department have profited thereby, and whether any additional safeguards should be provided in regard to the expenditure of public money, in or by the said department, and to report upon the matter aforesaid; that the said committee have power to send for persons, papers and records, and to examine witnesses under oath.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that he was now a little better informed than when he proposed the motion. He had a suspicion that the charges were froth then. Now he was certain that such was the case. The other night they were told there was a large number of items from the expense of the government, but now it was seen that it was all wind talk, and that after all amounted to nothing. It happened that the late minister of marine and fisheries was no longer in the House to defend himself. He had gone to another tribunal before which all would have to appear some day. It was charged that the goods for the Arctic were diverted elsewhere. This was the charge of dishonesty against the late minister, and when an investigation is asked in fairness to the dead man it is refused. When the opposition is brought to book they say that they did not mean anything. Mr. Foster replied at length, going over a large number of items from the auditor general's report, saying that the items were too large. For instance, he said that the crew of the Kerat on the Pacific coast should have been able to have lived on a less luxurious diet than ninety cents a day for each of the officers and crew.

Mr. Fielding said that if there was anything in the charges it would not have been necessary for Mr. Foster to have gone all over the auditor general's report. As far as the marine and fisheries department was concerned there was no suspicion attached to it, because the gentleman who preceded over it was able and vigilant and would see that there was no wrongdoing.

Mr. Fielding pointed out that Mr. Foster did not want evidence. He made his charges in the North Atlantic Trading Co. without any evidence. The evidence was now being taken. If the opposition had any charge to make against a minister of the crown there was a proper way to do it. The investigation into the Arctic was another kind of investigation. In regard to it, Mr. Foster said that it was a trifling affair, but there was a charge of fraud in the case of the Arctic. The trouble was that the people of Canada were looking with approval at the prosperity of the country under Liberal administration with less years of Conservative rule.

BEWARE OF "WOODEN NUTMEGS."

THIS is an age of imitations! The symbol of the period should be the "Wooden Nutmeg."

Every sincerely good and reliable article of commerce has today a score of deceptive substitutes poaching upon its market. And, if the substitutes were as good as the originals they would not need to imitate the outward appearance of these originals, but could create a market of their own, on merit.

The Maker of a sound, and reliable article makes it sound and reliable so as to deserve, and hold, a future market.

The Maker of a substitute for that article makes it for present profit only—to trade upon the goodness of the original.

He has nothing at stake for the future, and his policy is to give you the shell without the kernel—the appearance without the value.

Some Shoe Retailers prefer selling "long-profit" shoes to selling "The Slater Shoe," which is price-controlled by the Makers.

But,—don't forget that the Slater Shoe is priced by the Makers to prevent your being over-charged when you buy them.

Look for the Slater frame and the Makers' price, $4.00 or $5.00 on the lining.

The only place at which Slater Shoes can be purchased in this town is at

24,000 ALREADY

Quebec, May 18.—The immigrants are simply pouring into Canada these days through the port of Quebec, and the demand for passenger space on the other side of the Atlantic is so great that the steamship companies are making arrangements to put on extra steamers. Two thousand six hundred new settlers arrived today, 1,100 Scotchmen and women from Glasgow, and the balance foreigners from continental Europe, mostly all of the laboring class sailing from Antwerp.

Notwithstanding that the ocean passenger service from Europe only commenced in the St. Lawrence less than three weeks ago, 16,111 immigrants who came out in storage were landed at Quebec, and fully one-third more bound for the Northwest came out as intermediate passengers, making a total of over 24,000 new settlers to arrive since the opening of navigation, and the month of May is only half gone. This is fully 10,000 more than arrived last year comparatively and the influx is unparalleled in the history of Canada.

THE WORLD'S COMMERCE.

The world's international commerce will aggregate fully $25,000,000,000 in 1906, says a bulletin issued by the United States department of commerce and labor. By this term "world's international commerce," explains the bulletin "is meant the imports plus the exports of all countries of the world from which statistical trade reports were available." The figures given indicate that the trade between nations in 1906 will be six times as much as in 1850, and two and one-half times as much as in 1870, and 25 per cent more than in 1900. One interesting fact, says the bulletin which an examination of the figures of average monthly trade of the principal countries of the world develops, is that the United States now stands at the head of the world's great exporting nations. The average monthly exportations from the United States in the nine months ended with March, 1905, is shown by the Bureau of statistics figures at $147,264,973, the monthly average from the United Kingdom for the same period $143,574,912, the average from Germany during the twelve months ended with December, 1905, $110,177,600, and the monthly average from France for the twelve months period ending with February, 1906, $72,370,400.
